

The offering of a Master of Divinity major in Systematic Theology is a response to the need of Bachelor of Theology degree holders who want to upgrade their degree with specialization in theology. Certainly, this program addresses the need of the church for more theologians.

Second, this program also addresses the faculty development need of seminaries, Bible Schools, church-related schools and institutions. Faculty members of these schools will now have a place to study and specialize in theology.

Third, while the Divinity School is a UCCP-related seminary, students from other Christian church denominations and groups have come to its doorsteps to study. An offering of a specialized training in theology will be a boon to these groups that need to profess
